

This small steep slope on Mt Ellis in the northern Gallatin Range is a sign of unstable conditions. It was skier triggered and broke about 20 feet wide but didn't run downhill more than a few feet due to low slope angles.
Photo: J. Wareham

Advisory Region
Northern Gallatin

Forecast link: GNFAC Avalanche Forecast for Thu Feb 14, 2013

