

This massive slide occurred on the north side of Scotch Bonnet Mountain north of Cooke City. It is uncertain whether this slide was human triggered or a natural, but judging by the tracks it appears to be snowmobile triggered. The crown looks to be close to 1000 ft. wide and over ten feet deep. Photo B. Zevora

Advisory Region

Cooke City

Longitude

-109.95W

Latitude

45.07N

Cooke City, 2014-03-08